Addressed to public opinion.

The Regional Committee of Education International for Latin America (EILA) has closely followed the political situation in Venezuela.

Recent events clearly show that there is a coup attempt, promoted without concealment by the government of the United States, violating the international law of non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries.

This intervention supports the appointment as "President in Charge", a title that does not exist in the constitution of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela, of a person who was not voted by anyone. This fact is generating tensions and internal confrontations, which will only aggravate and deepen the problems and difficulties of the Venezuelan people.

The Regional Committee of Education International for Latin America expresses that conflicts must be resolved by means of peaceful, negotiation and dialogue between the parties, as well as is planned jointly by governments of Mexico and Uruguay that propose themselves as mediators, ratifying the spirit of fraternity and solidarity that should prevail among governments of Latin American countries.

Yours sincerely,
